

Notes for hexaphon rev. 7

The new version of the Hexaphon features a nice slide switch, led (and current-limiting resistor). We found that a resistor of about 82k gives a nice (not too bright) shine, feel free however to experiment with the value of this resistor. The resistor in question is marked out below. In addition this version features a new battery holder – remember to solder it the right way.

